Re: Medburg
PH Airtel 5/18/71

Attached are complete listings dated 6/2/71 containing all pertinent data from 23 of the 87 batches (sets) of toll statements submitted with captioned airtel. See attached resume for specific batches, billing numbers, and known subscribers.

These listings were prepared by a search against the initial "Reference List" of 26 telephone numbers submitted by Philadelphia (airtel 5/18/71) under the heading "Comparison Names for Medburg ADP." Two printouts of the Reference List are enclosed, one is sequenced by telephone number, the other by subscribers name.

It should be noted that the "Reference List" data comprises the base file against which toll records are searched. "Hits" on matching numbers relate directly to this base file and are significant only as far as the base file is significantly comprehensive. If the Originating Field Office wishes to enlarge the base file, information to this effect should be submitted.

Runs for subsequent blocks of work will be processed as entirely separate entities. It is planned then each succeeding run will NOT include toll data previously processed and listed. A final composite listing is planned when all batches of telephone toll statements have been processed. If this is not satisfactory, please advise. It will be no problem to make a composite run at any given point if this is more desirable to investigative needs. The considerations are this: either the "Hits" are best analyzed separately as they are developed, or the "Hits" are better analyzed if they are grouped with all previous "Hits" developed.

DETAILS RE LISTINGS PRODUCED, MEDBURG CASE

A. A "Hit Listing" showing any toll call where the number called, or the from number (of a "Collect" call) matches a ten digit telephone number on the submitted Reference List. Also, if the Billing Number of a call resulting in a Hit belongs to a subscriber on the Reference List, that subscriber's name will be printed for cross reference purposes.

Suffice to say, the "Hits" will be as meaningful and extensive as the Reference List will permit.

B. A "To Number Listing" of all calls processed sequenced by number called. Hits are flagged when they occur for reference to the Hit List.

C. A "Billing Number Listing" of all calls processed sequenced by number billed. Again, hits are flagged when they occur for reference purposes.

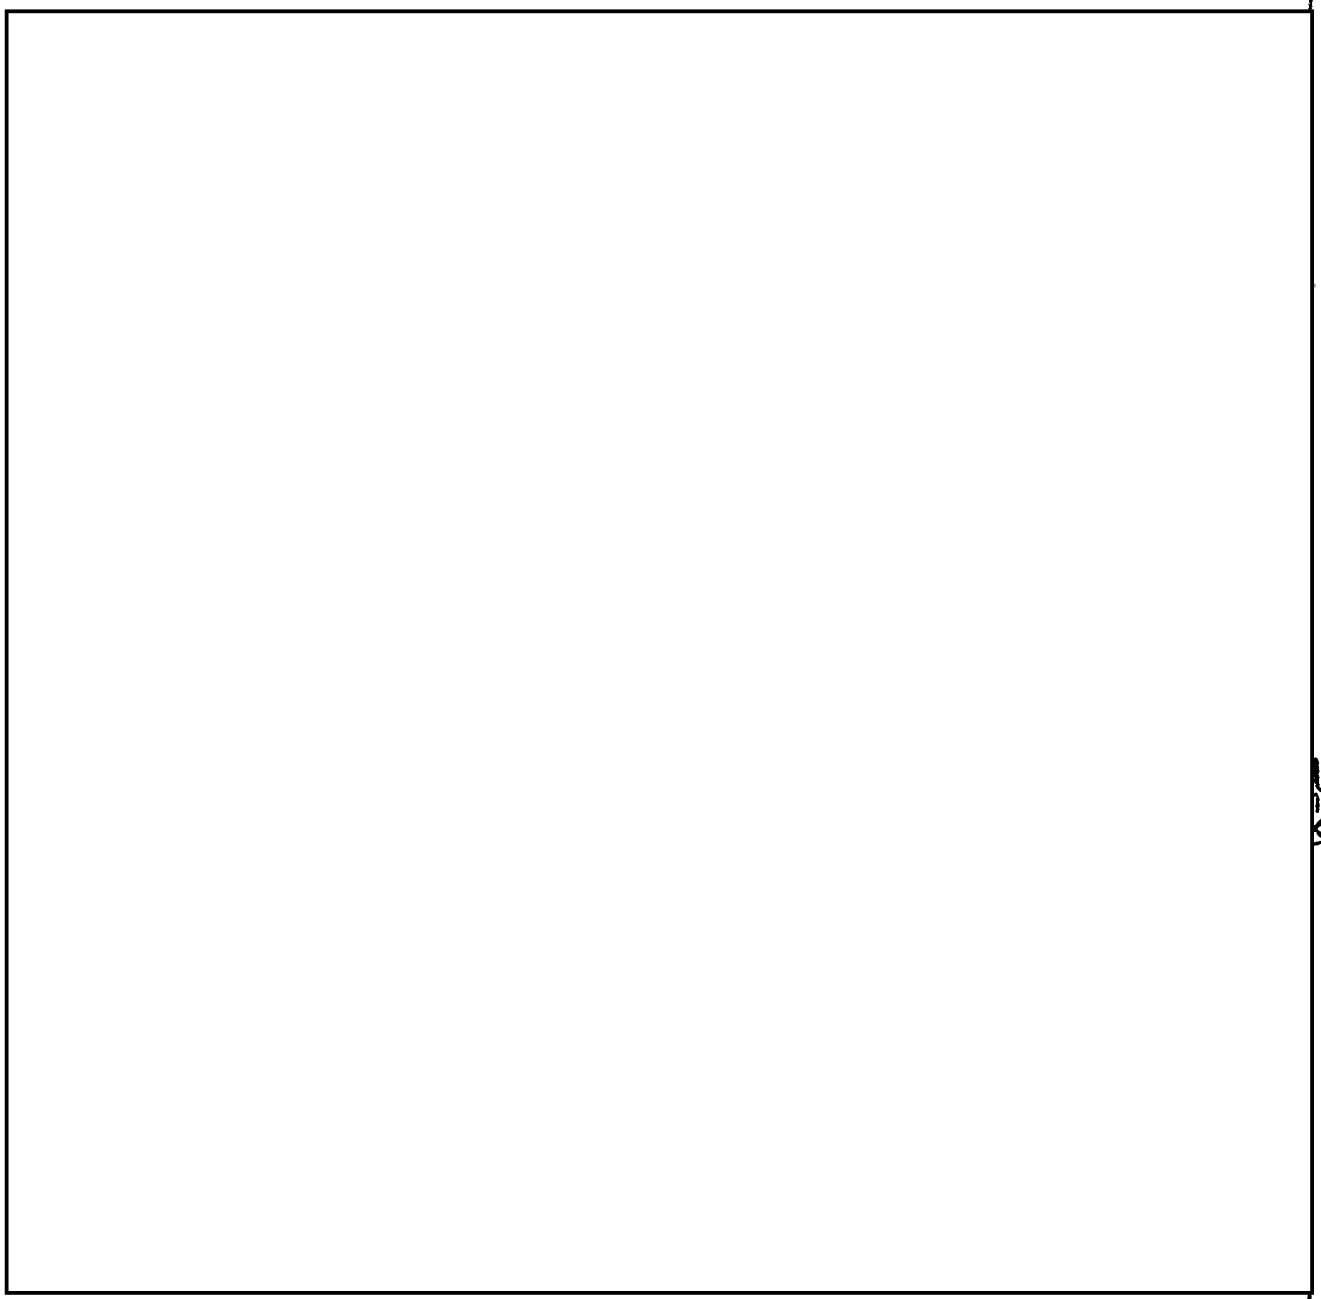

NOTE: Each item on the list is referenced by document number which is written in the lower right corner of the source document from which it was obtained.

Source documents will be returned with their related listings as they are processed. It is expected that the interested Field Office will retain the documents for immediate reference to instant runs and for future use with subsequent listings.

RE: MEDBURG
SUPPLEMENTAL RUN 2

Attached are listings dated 6/9/71 showing the results of a search on an additional 41 batches (sets) of telephone toll statements submitted by Philadelphia.

This material was searched separately from all other data received to date; a rerun of all other data to include this additional material has not been done. This should be considered supplemental to the listings dated 6/2/71 and 6/7/71.

This data was searched against the same Reference List that was used for the previous listings. A copy of the Reference List accompanied the 6/2/71 data.

The resulting 55 "Hits" have been reverified against the appropriate source documents.

Reference my memorandum 5/17/71 which, in answer to Director's inquiry, furnished preliminary facts concerning 5/16/71 "Washington Post" article captioned "Informant Tagged in FBI Papers."

Background

According to the "Post" article, [redacted] had been an FBI informant for a number of years. The article did not identify this individual by name although the Philadelphia newspapers carried an article similar in nature which identified the alleged informant as [redacted] According to the "Post," the article was based on contents of copies of 7 FBI documents stolen from our Media Resident Agency and mailed to the "Post" by the Citizens Commission to Investigate the FBI, a group which has publicly acknowledged responsibility for the burglary. Referenced memorandum noted that the so-called Bureau documents, which apparently formed the basis for the "Post" article, were being forwarded to the Bureau by the Philadelphia Office and upon receipt would be carefully analyzed.

[redacted]

EX-113
REC 4 52- 94527-207

The publicized "FBI informant" is [redacted] formerly active in [redacted] in the Philadelphia area. He has never been a Bureau informant. The Philadelphia Office had periodic contacts with [redacted] regarding general inquiries in the criminal and racial fields. In January, 1970, he volunteered information pertaining to a bank robbery investigation. Philadelphia Office believed he had informant potential and consequently opened a Potential Criminal Informant file on him. The July 22, 1970, edition of the Philadelphia "Daily News" carried an article wherein [redacted] was quoted as making derogatory remarks concerning the Bureau. The remarks were patently false and [redacted] faced-down by Philadelphia Agents regarding this incident.

Because of this, the Director instructed that "I want no further contact [redacted] with [redacted]." By communication 8/3/70 Philadelphia was so advised and by return communication 8/4/70 Philadelphia stated that the informant file on [redacted] had been closed and he would not be contacted in the future. u

FBI Documents Involved

The "7 FBI documents" mentioned in the "Post" articles are in fact 7 carefully selected pages from 3 separate Bureau communications. The first, a May, 1970, Philadelphia memorandum, noted that [redacted] was contacted on 5/20/70 and could furnish no information regarding a subject who was of interest to us in a Racial Matter investigation. The initials "PCI" preceded [redacted] name although they were not spelled out to mean "Potential Criminal Informant." *The second item is page 15 of a multi-paged Philadelphia LHM dated 7/6/70, captioned "Potential for Racial Violence--Philadelphia Division." The LHM was classified "Confidential" and page 15 was so stamped. This page sets out the general racial situation existing at that time in the Chester, Pennsylvania, area. [redacted] name is not mentioned. The remaining 5 items are pages 59-63, inclusive, of a lengthy Philadelphia LHM dated 5/8/67 captioned "Possible Racial Violence--Major Urban Areas." Memorandum was classified "Confidential" and the above pages were so marked. While [redacted] name is mentioned on each page, nowhere is he listed as an informant. He is identified as [redacted] who was contacted on May 1, 1967, and furnished information of an innocuous nature regarding certain facts of his own background, 3 groups which were involved in civil rights activities and stated that the basic goals sought by racial leaders are better housing, equal job opportunities and school desegregation. u

Branche Denies Informant Status

Referenced memorandum noted that in an interview reported in the 5/17/71 edition of "The Philadelphia Inquirer" (copy attached) [redacted] denied that he was ever an FBI informant. He stated that the Bureau, along with other police agencies, were in periodic contact with him concerning planned civil rights activities. He is quoted in this article as once again mouthing off in a very uncomplementary fashion about the Bureau and the Director.

Observations

[redacted] never was what we would consider an informant. For a short period of time in 1970 Philadelphia did feel that he had informant potential, however, consistent with the Director's instructions, such contact with [redacted] had ceased as of 8/4/70. The implications carried in the "Post" article are, as usual with the "Post," biased, slanted and grossly irresponsible.

ACTION:

Domestic Intelligence Division will prepare individual damage assessments on each of the documents involved in this matter.

Stanley Branche Denies Charge He Was an Informant for FBI

By HOWARD S. SHAPIRO
Of The Inquirer Staff

Former civil rights firebrand Stanley E. Branche flatly denied on Sunday allegations that he had been a confidential informant for the FBI.

The charges were made by the Citizens' Commission to Investigate the FBI, the group distributing files allegedly stolen from an FBI office in Media on March 8. The Commission made the charges in a cover letter accompanying the latest packet of files.

Branche, of Devon, was formerly chairman of the Chester Committee for Freedom Now and former executive director of the Philadelphia Black Coalition and the Greater Chester Movement.

SENT TO PAPER

The alleged FBI files, sent to The Inquirer and other selected newspapers this weekend and bearing a Detroit postmark, reported that Branche was questioned on May 20, 1970, by the FBI and "advised he did not know" a certain individual "and he could furnish no information about him."

"The FBI would call different people about different things pertaining to the civil rights movement," Branche said in answering the charges. "They would come to our civil rights offices periodically and ask what we had planned. So did other agencies, like the civil disobedience squad.

STANLEY BRANCHE
. . . blasts Hoover

"If we were going to march, I would tell them we were going to march. But sometimes, they'd call and ask, 'Do you know Joe Jones?' for instance, and I'd say, 'Listen, pal, don't call us with this stuff.'"

CODE LETTERS

FBI code letters "POI" appear in front of Branche's name in the documents, but are undefined. Branche said he had no idea what the code meant. In the other portions of the document, his political history is sketched.

Branche was unaware that such files were released, along with the committee's charges, when he was contacted by a reporter.

"I don't like what the FBI's doing (in its files)," he said. "I said many times I think J. Edgar Hoover's a senile old buzzard, and the Philadelphia division (of the FBI), doing all this . . . , is worse than any demonstrator could be.

"I am really not concerned how long they've followed me, because I have done nothing to be ashamed of in the civil rights movement."

JAIL RECORD

Branche countered the Citizens' Commission's charge that the documents help to explain why Branche is not in jail for civil rights activities. He cited his jail record and said: "I've gone to jail over 100 times — but not for sticking a pistol in my pocket and saying, 'This is The movement.' I'm not ashamed of anything I've ever gone to jail for."

The commission also claimed the documents helped explain Branche's verbal attack on "black activists who formerly worked with him," probably referring to Branche's opposition to Muhammed Kenyatta, of the Black Economic Development Conference.

Kenyatta's group has demanded reparations from church groups for damages inflicted on blacks throughout America's history.

"I still don't believe in knocking on a door and throwing the sacraments on the floor," Branche said Sunday. "That's why I was opposed to the whole thing."

NAME IN FILES

He added there was "no doubt in my mind" that his name is in scores of files dealing with civil rights groups in the 1960's. "They (the FBI agents) have trailed me, followed me, tapped my phone. But if they have me down as a paid informer, they'll have to prove it."

Branche speculated that the group involved in stealing the FBI files were the persons "I chased out of Chester years before. Because of what they have said, doesn't mean I have to prove something to them. I do not condone them and they do not lead me. And they know that (their actions) isn't my kind of schtick."

Branche said, he was presently unemployed. He recently sold his portion of ownership in the plush Rolls Royce Club, a center city restaurant and bar.

Among his best friends are Major Coxson, flamboyant black entrepreuner, who was a partner with Branche in their Rolls Royce venture.

'NO MOVEMENT'

During the last two years, he has not been active with civil rights organizers. He explained this Sunday by saying there is no more civil rights movement.

"We don't have a concerted effort to fight these problems, like housing, jobs and education, anymore. That stopped when all the Federal funds came down the line. Somebody's going to have to come up with a new approach, and when they do, I'll be the first to participate."

The Citizens' Commission also charged that what they claimed were alleged FBI-ties showed why Branche supported former Chester Mayor James H. Gorbey for a Federal judgeship. Gorbey had been mayor during the early 60s, when violence occasionally swept Chester's streets during demonstrations.

"I backed Him (Gorbey) simply because he had demonstrated compassion as a judge in Delaware County, wherein 60 percent of the people who came before him were black," Branche said. "I'd rather have somebody there that we know, than somebody we don't know."

Branche, who recently moved to Devon from Chester, has four children: Mark, 10; Stanley Jr., 5; Wilma, 4, and Alexander, 2. He and his wife, Anna, are both 37.

His brother, Gilbert, is assistant chief of county detectives under the office of the Philadelphia District Attorney.

DEFUNCT UNIT

Branche, a powerful orator, became well-known in Chester in 1962 when he took over the weak NAACP there. From his street marches, Chester became a leader in northern racial unrest. After a falling-out with several NAACP members, he began the now-defunct Committee for Freedom Now.

During the 60s, when he was in the civil rights forefront, Branche held seminars for law enforcers on the need for civil rights' activities. He was a leader of many protests, a number of them against the Chester School District.

In 1967, Branche sought the Democratic candidacy in Chester's mayoral race, but was knocked out of the primary when a court found his petition to be fraudulent.

He was a controversial director of the Black Coalition, a self-help job and business organization which lasted a year during 1968-69. He resigned from his post shortly before the debt-ridden coalition was dissolved.

Shortly after that, he faded from the civil rights scene.

A S.D.S. REPOR

LEGAL THIEVERY IN AMERICA

Philadelphia Students for a Democratic Society is organizing a city-wide campaign against ıe recent toll increases on the Ben Franklin and Walt Whitman Bridges. We are joining the othe .ty organizations, notably the Consumers Education and Protective Association, to stop what we ınsider an unnecessary and immoral attack on the wage incomes of the residents of Philadelphia ıd Camden. Thenew toll hike could cost many families as much as an extra $100 a year. Our camp .gn has already begun and has received a warm response from the bridge-using motorists and fro ıctory workers on either side of the river.

WHY SDS IS FIGHTING THE TOLL INCREASE

The toll hike is but one aspect of a growing all-sided attack on the living standards of ıe American people. It comes at a time of rising taxes, spiralling inflation and an accelerat- ıg decline in real wages.

To pay for growing Local, State, and Federal government budgets tax burdens are being shif l to working people and poor people generally. Sales taxes, payroll taxes, transportation taxes ;asoline), tansit fares, service taxes etc. are all levies which fall most heavily on working :opie - all of which are increasing at an alarming rate (witness Pennsylvania's less thanhonor- ıle distinction of recently being blessed with the highest sales tax in the nation). Meanwhile ıe portion of public revenue supplied by taxes on major and corporate and realty interests used › pay for 65% - 70% of the city's general operating budget. Today they pay for 32% - and that- ıttern is repeated throughout the country.

These rising government budgets are in turn half-way measures to meet the problem of mass- 'e urban rot. Choked transportation arteries require more money for mass transit. Stifling air)llution caused by automobiles and increased industrialization demands an additional financial ıyout. Deteriorating ghettos, slum housing and rising unemployment (especially although by no :ans exclusively among Black people) sends the welfare population skyrocketing. Hospital and :alth services keep worsening: fire hazards increase due to greater congestion and concentrat- ın of ancient, dilapidated buildings and on and on.....

Governments half-heartedly attempt to provide the"services" that the whole disgusting mess ıgenders by taxing wage earners - AND by hocking our cities to major financial institutions ıhich amount to the same thing). Thus the nation's cities are now $30 BILLION in debt to the .ggest banks. In Philadelphia 14% of the city's budget represents interest payments to banks, ıich is more than the combined total spent on welfare, transportation and helth services. ıese financial institutions profit handsomely from the desperation of our cities. And in ten ıses it is these same institutions which are responsible for that desperation in the first plac or example, an increasing housing shortage makes purly speculative investment, on the part of :g realty interest and banks, in urban real estate (read slums) a highly profitable venture, ır more profitable than investing in new construction. Thus, the market value of a 50 - year ld excuse for a home reaches the moon (as rents soar), while the human valueof that same "struc :e" is less than zero. Even whensocial improvements are made in the city, say the expansion of ıss transit, they are financed with huge loans from the banks which are paid for by increased ıxes, tolls, or transit fares. Despite the fact that most of these improvements are to the dire ınefit of major real estate interests, financial institutions, and large corporations, their ›st is almost entirely shifted to the working population, as we shall illustrate in the case of ıe recent toll hike.

The "shame of our cities" would make Lincoln Steffens blanch. For all of this rotting and ›oting are occurring on a scale befitting the atomic age, unimaginable to those innocent muck- ıkers of the "Progressive Era."

Inflation is rapidly eating away all the wage increases workers manage to win. Real wages are barely holding their own, for many workers are falling in the face of skyrocketing prices and taxes. In the month of January alone weekly pay of factory workers dropped of nearly $2.00 (Wall Street Journal, Feb., 27). The race to keep pace with this inflation is reflected in the fact that 20% of the full-time non-farm work force now 49 hours a week or more, while 40% of these 9.4 million workers work MORE THAN 60 HOURS A WEEK (U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, Leisure and the Long Work Week).

Unemployment is climbing despite official claims about its "stabilization." The Labor Department's 3.5 million figure does not include people who have given up looking for jobs because they can't find one, those receiving welfare, and those working less than 35 hours a week.

The situation is of course much worse among Black people. Not only is their unemployment rate twice that of white workers, but in the ghetto "nearly one-third of the teen-age boys and nearly one-half of the girls who are actively seeking work were unable to find a job" (Poverty Areas of our Major Cities, Monthly Labor Review, Oct., 1966). This report also states that "for Negroes in poverty areas, the unemployment rates were higher than the worst national rates for the entire labor force recorded since the depression of the 1930's."

A few years back it was the fashion to talk about the "super abundant," "post-scarcity," U.S. economy. That contention is revealed as simply so much idiocy by pointing to such evidence as massive urban rot, to obsolescence, decay and technological backwardness in many essential industries (the 1920's level of technology in the garment industry or the oldest metal-working technology in the industrialized world are examples), to the material shortages associated with the official one-quarter to one-third of U.S. population in poverty, and to starvation in a semi colonial world which is an integral part of American economy.

Those who rule our economy are creating a huge mass of parasitical thoroughly wasteful form of investment (war production and real estate speculation to name the two largest). Large masses of potentially useful money flow instead into redundant sales offices, financial institution establishments, and so forth, all of which adds not one penny's worth to the real output of production itself. Vast state bureaucracies are created, all of which have only the most scant relevance to any production of real wealth. The result is an astronomical rise in non-productive job categories (government and financial bureaucracies) matched by a decling portion of the population involved in real wealth-producing employment. Thus the portion of the population engaged in real production (mining, manufacturing, transportation and related activity) has declined from 49% in the 1920's to 49% today, despite the growing urgencies to immediately and rapidly expand production. The major section of the economy that ought to produce new plant and equipment has been converted, by those who own and control the country's wealth, into the production of war goods. Every tank produced is the loss of a major machine tool to employ another worker productively; every bomber built (to suppress the Vietnamese) is an entire modernized plant lost for the employment of a large number of potential workers. In fact far from being the "affluent society" we are fast becoming plagued by a crisis of under production (vast housing shortages, crumbling, overcrowded schools, grossly inadequate health and hospital facilities, obsolete, inefficient transportation systems, etc.) and wasteful investment caused by the masters of the economy.

WORKING PEOPLE FIGHT BACK

All of the above adds up to a worsening life for working people. It also explains the mounting resistance on the part of workers all over the country. Strikes are sweeping the nation. Everyone from copper workers to teachers are struggling valiantly to maintain a decent way of life. They are fighting against low wages, speed-up, lay-offs and the whole range of conditions which are making life intolerable.

They face a host of powerful enemies. It's not only the giants of the auto, electrical, copper, airline, rubber, or railroad industries that they have to contend with. Time and again the government on every level steps in to give a helping hand to the corporations. In the West Coast longshoremen strike a Taft-Hartley forced the workers back on the job. When the railroad workers threatened to walk-out, a special strike-busting piece of legislation was flown from Washington to Uruguay for Daddy Bird to sign.

The copper workers have been on strike for seven months. Many are barely existing. The President has recently expressed great concern about ending the strike. The reason: the strik has just spread to Kennecott's Baltimore refining plant which refines the company's Chilean copper - it's that Chilean copper (produced by $1/day Chilean laborers) which has up to no allowed Kennecott to smugly watch its workers starve. Washington's concern couldn't be more transparent.

Other examples of Federal government strike-breaking are too numerous to mention. Nor is government intervention limited to the national level. Pennsylvania's Governor recently called out the Guard to stop a mine workers organizing drive. And in New York the head of the teacher union went to jail and the union was fined because the teachers dared to strike for higher wage and decent working conditions. Similar results can be expected in the current Pittsburgh teachers' strike. The examples are endless. Overshadowing them all is the massive use of force against the Black population, who are trying to resist the worst effects of a rotting economy and the bloodsucking practiced by every small and big-time exploiter in the ghetto.

All of this strike-busting, wage-gouging and rising taxation on wage-earners comes at a time of record profit making for big business and finance. Fourth quarter 1966 profits of 551 large corporations were up 4.2% over fourth quarter 1965. And 1965 profits were up 12% over 19

THE DELAWARE RIVER BRIDGE AUTHORITY - BANKERSVILLE, U. S. A.

We in SDS are committed to building a movement in support of the just struggles of working people for a decent life.

We are beginning, here in Philadelphia, with our campaign against the raise in tolls by the Delaware River Port Authority. The toll question contains many of the issues of deteriorating living standards and speculative profit-making described above:

1. The toll hike is equivalent to another wage-cut or tax increase, further eroding the income of Philadelphia and Camden wage-earners. At present wages are only barely enough to pay for those things that workers need for themselves and their families. In our campaign we are maintaining that any attack on wage income, whether in the form of sales, personal income taxes or toll hikes is both immoral and unnecessary.

2. The toll hike creates the myth that only the motorists benefit from the bridges. Furthermore, it is another example of shifting an ever-increasing proportion of taxation away from corporate and property taxes upon the wages of wage-earners.

Our campaign raises the fact that the main beneficiaries of the bridges connecting New Jersey with Philadelphia are big companies, real estate interests, department stores and banks. Without the bridges they would have few customers or workers. They would make less profit. Land owned by major realty interests and banks would be drastically reduced in value.

Part of the reason the Port Authority is raising tolls is to finance the construction of new piers and terminals. The chief gainers from such new construction will be big shipping interests (Delaware Shipping for example) and companies like Scott Paper (a new pier and terminal are planned for Chester where Scott is located.)

Yet despite all this the Port Authority is set up so that working people pay the costs. By law the P. A. can only meet its operating expenses by raising tolls. Thus major business and financial concerns escape without paying a dime for facilities vital to their profit-making.

3. The bridge workers are asking for a $1200 wage increase and other benefits. The P. A. has refused to even recognize the workers' union - Transit Workers Union - much less grant them the increase. In case anyone believes $1200 is being a bit greedy, think about this. $1200 would raise the average bridge worker's annual income from its present $7100 to $8300. $8300 is $700 BELOW the minimum required for a moderate standard of living for a family of four in the Philadelphia area.

Thus SDS is also demanding full wage and benefit increases and union recognition with the bridge workers.

4. The Port Authority itself represents one of those investment pork barrels for the big banks mentioned earlier. For instance, the Ben Franklin Bridge paid for itself 22 years ago et now the tolls are doubled. Instead of using the accumulated revenue surplus (at least $70 illion over 22 years) to either reduce the tolls on the Ben Franklin, or make improvements, the . A. has used the toll money to guarantee big banks a safe and profitable place to invest. In ther words, all accumulated toll surplus is used by the P. A. to allow it to go deeper into deb o the banks (like the current plan for a new $324 million loan) so they can build more new faci ties elsewhere. It should also be mentioned that the original loan on the Ben Franklin returne 27 million profit (interest) to the bond-holders.

Another gimmick and boon to the bankers is the present re-financing of the $60 million debt n the Walt Whitman Bridge. This re-financing operation will jump the interest rate from the ol .5% to 5.2% - a 50% increase in cost. And to spice up this gigantic pork barrel, the P. A. wil ay the original bond-holders a premium for paying back the loan before it was due.

The final touch is that the interest paid to the banks is TAX EXEMPT!

Nor is this uncanny sympathy with bankers' investment appetites completely unexplainable. he new appointees to the P. A. are:

1. Kevy K. Kaiserman ---- builder and lawyer
2. R. Stewart Rauch Jr. -- president, Philadelphia Savings Fund Society
3. Harrison F. Dunning --- president, Scott Paper Company
4. Geoffrey S. Smith ----- former president, Girard Trust Bank

(There are a number of other aspects of P. A. expansion plans which smell sour and SDS is nvestigating.)

We are raising a fundamental principle in the bridge campaign. We are for making social mprovements badly needed by the people of the Philadelphia area. But we are absolutely opposed o the present methods of financing these improvements. In general we believe that gross profit ade in production, trade, services, and real estate speculation represent the fund created by ociety in excess of wages, with which the citym state or port authority can create needed socia mprovements.

In the case of the bridges we are proposing the following ways of implementing that prin- iple:

1. A substantial increase in the assessed value of the property of those shipping ompanies and manufactures who do or will directly benefit from P. A. activity. The subsequent ncrease in property tax revenue could either be turned directly over to the P. A. permitting oll reductions - or the cities (camden and Philadelphia) could reduce wage taxes by the same mount as property taxes are increased.
2. Taxing the presently tax exempt interest going to P. A. bond-holders.
3. Using the accumulated revenue surplus to finance new projects or reduce tolls, ather than using the surplus to provide a safe investment market for the banks.

THE ROLE OF STUDENTS

We have been leafletting and petitionning at the bridges and nearby factories to build sup- ort for our alternative program for financing port operations, leading to a big demonstration t the Port Authority public hearings. We are also researching not only the P. A. but the whole ransportation system in Philadelphia, because soon we will be launching a campaign against the hreatened rise in PTC fares.

We feel that students can play an important role in researching and developing issues of olitical importance to students and wage-earners. In this regard, students have a primary role ecause of their research and organizing abilities and their access to information. More, we be lieve that our own future is directly connected to the movement of working people for a just and decent life. The success of failure of that movement will decide the fate of our whole society for a long time to come. Failure will mean increasing impoverishment and misery for millions of mericans; a useless life, at best, for students. All hope of an improved society lies in linki up with an organized and powerful movement of working people. We would like your help in plannin nd carrying out this project: the research, writing the papers, and organizing the leafletting nd demonstrations, as well as helping us plan future campaigns.
